Science and International Affairs

This evening at 8:00 p.m., the student body of Macdonald College will have the opportunity to hear an address by Dr. E.W.R. Steacie, O.B.E., Ph.D., D.Sc., L.L.D., F.R.S.C., F.R.S. He will deliver his address in the assembly hall at the Annual War Memorial Service to be chaired this year by Dr. R.E. Powell, Chancellor of McGill U.

A native of Westmount Que. Dr. Steacie graduated from McGill U. in 1926 and has since had honorary degrees conferred upon him by 16 other universities. In addition to this he has been honored by many societies and has been awarded several medals in recognition of his many contributions to science and society. He has been President of the National Research Council since 1952 and has served as Deputy-Director of the British-Canadian Atomic Energy Project (1944-46), a member of the International Advisory Committee on Research in the Natural Sciences Programme of UNESCO, a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the International Council of Scientific Unions, the Canadian Representative to NATO Science Committee and many other positions. Dr. Steacie has also found time to publish 200 papers and three books in the fields of Photochemistry, Kinetics of Gas Reactions, Free-Radical Reactions, and is a very prominent figure in the National and International scenes.

This evening, Dr. Steacie will speak on 'Science and International Affairs' and with his vast experience and wealth of knowledge behind this topic, it is something that we cannot afford to miss. In this age of strained international relations and far-reaching scientific discoveries when we must strive for peace and prosperity, we owe it to ourselves and to the future to be well informed on these matters, and to be prepared to carry the torch for peace and freedom. It is more than an opportunity to hear Dr. Steacie; it is a privilege. So, make the most of it and be sure to attend the War Memorial Service in the Assembly Hall at 8:00 p.m. this evening.

Tomorrow afternoon at 1:15 there will be a coffee Party in the Laird Hall Lounge to give students the opportunity to meet Dr. Steacie in person. Invitations may be obtained from any member of the Student's Council. It is suggested that you approach Dr. Steacie and introduce yourself by name. This Coffee Party is arranged primarily as a service for the students and in most respects students will have priority for invitations.

GREEN and GOLD 1961

Once again the GREEN AND GOLD is with us and it is time that we all started to get together, to produce a show that will be bigger and better than ever before.

For the new students of Macdonald and the old stagers whose memory may have perhaps rusted a little, the GREEN AND GOLD is a musical review which is written, directed and produced by the students of Macdonald College every year. It is a completely amateur show, and the main aim is to try and get as many students as possible to participate, not only in the acting, but behind the scenes as well.

The Production Executive consists of fourteen people, the majority of whom were elected last spring. The remaining positions were filled as soon as possible this Fall in order to get the show off to an early start. Most of the students on this year's executive have taken some part in the show before and are all very keen to produce an even better effort this year. However, the position of Choreographer is not yet filled, and if anyone is interested in the job, would they please get in touch with me as soon as possible. The position entails directing the dancing on the stage, and is exceedingly interesting for anyone with musical and dancing talent.

The show itself takes place on the nights of February 22nd and 25th to coincide with the Macdonald Royal.

Auditions for actors, actresses, singers, dancers, novelty groups and anyone who is interested in taking part in any aspect of the show, take place from November 14th-17th. After this, nothing happens until the end of the Christmas vacation when the show gets

Annual Assembly

A large attendance, consisting of students and faculty members, was on hand in the Assembly Hall on Tuesday afternoon to witness the presentation of medals, prizes, scholarships, and bursaries to a long list of Macdonald students, and to hear an address by Dr. David Thompson. The ceremony opened by the singing of "Hail Alma Mater" and "All Hail Macdonald" which were followed by a few opening remarks by Dr. Dion.

The presentation of the awards was then carried out with Dr. Thompson doing the honours. Among the big winners were Mr. Keith McCully with a $2000. post-graduate scholarship (C.I.L.), Miss. Katherine McKellar and Mr. Douglas Phillips, each with $1500 teaching scholarships. Mr. Andrew Lee, with four awards, and Miss. Gail Hoyt with three, also deserve congratulations.

Following the presentations of awards, Dale Ellis, President of the Students' Council very capably introduced Dr. Thompson as guest speaker, filling in for Dr. James who was unable to be present. He mentioned that Dr. Thompson was born in Scotland, studied at several universities and is presently the Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research, and Vice-Principal of McGill University.

In his remarks, Dr. Thompson mentioned that McGill University is presently under less financial pressure than it has been for a number of years and thus better able to do something to allow for the increasing number of students. He said that in the past, the admission of students has been based largely on academic record, and although this has reduced the number of "Christmas graduates", he felt that such qualities as personality, eagerness, interest, and desire should be considered in the future selective admission of students. Dr. Thompson suggested that too much uniformity among students is not always the best situation as students actually educate one another by having different qualities and interests. He also stated that students at Mac. have the benefits and advantages of both the large and the small colleges and should be grateful for a "unique educational opportunity".

Dr. Dion then thanked Dr. Thompson for his warm and friendly approach and for stepping in to take the place of Dr. James on such short notice. Dr. James, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of McGill U., was urgently called away earlier in the day. The ceremony concluded with the singing of God Save the Queen.

World Seed Year 1961

The Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations has established 1961 as World Seed Year. Sixty-five FAO member governments and nine dependent territories have decided to take part in a World Seed Campaign designed to increase the productivity and quality of agricultural, horticultural and forestry products.

As a member of the United Nations and a supporter ments, the universities and the major organizations concerned with seed production, processing and marketing. This Committee has been active and the following projects have been initiated.

1. The World Seed Campaign emblem will be used widely on letterheads, seed catalogues and various other publications. The slogan "Good Seed Pays" has been adopted for use throughout Canada. This will appear on stamp cancellations and numerous other displays in conjunction with the FAO emblem.

2. The Post Office Department of the Federal Government has agreed to give serious consideration to a request to prepare a special commemorative stamp for use throughout Canada during World Seed Year.

3. The Information Service of the Canada Department of Agriculture is publishing a leaflet on seed which will be distributed widely both within and outside of Canada.

4. The Agricultural institute of Canada will publish a special issue of the A.I.C. Review early in 1961 dealing with Seed in Canadian Agriculture.

UTOPIA??

Some forty-six years ago, the free nations of the world banded themselves together and entered the most costly war the world had ever known, calling it naively "the war to end wars". After the war was over, and the peoples of the world had time for reflection, they began to realize that no one had really won or proved anything. During the twenty years which followed they saw their dreams of world peace slowly dissolve in a confusion of political folly and shortsightedness, until in 1939 the world was back where it began in 1914. Once again the nations of the world were thrown into a disastrous world war. This time someone dubbed it, "the war to end wars to end wars". Since 1945 we have seen the gradual division of the world into two opposing ideologies, two opposing political systems, two opposing military powers, with a large number of neutralist nations between. One hope has developed in the last fifteen years — the United Nations. While not always successful in its goals, this organization remains our best, perhaps our only hope for peaceful co-existence. The nuclear age which we are entering offers us a choice of complete chaos and destruction, or world peace with an abundant life for all through the harnessed power of the atom. Nearly all nations agree that disarmament must be effected, but are at loggerheads as to how they may go about it because of mutual distrust. Here is the greatest test for the nations. We submit that they must surrender their sovereignty to the wishes of the world through the U.N. which must become the supreme authoritative body, the only significant military force, and be embodied with the power to police any situation in any country of the world. There are obvious objections to such a scheme and it may seem unrealistic, but it does offer permanent abolition of the spectre of war. This is the goal which we must somehow achieve.

down to business in earnest. So, for anyone who is worried about participating because of the exams, do not bother to give it a second thought as your services will not be required until well after the trials of the exams are all over.

The GREEN AND GOLD Executive are holding an Open House on the evening of Thursday, November 10th, and if anyone is interested in finding out anything about the show, the members of the Executive will only be too pleased to help them.

Anyone, in the past, who has had anything to do with GREEN AND GOLD, will always speak of their experiences as one of the happiest memories of their College Life. Once you get involved in the organization and the show gets under way, you develop a terrific pride in being one of the members of a show where everyone is having a fabulous time as well as being the best of friends. After the last performance, there is the famous Green and Gold Party held at the local establishment known as Joe's, to mark the climax of yet another year.

So, join in the fun, and if there are any things that you want to find out concerning the show, come to the Open House in the Stewart Room on Thursday, November 10th. Otherwise, the Executive look forward to seeing you all at the auditions from November 14th-17th, when we will get the show under way to the biggest success yet.

erway to stage special World Seed Year exhibits at National and Provincial exhibitions. It is hoped that some exhibits in College Royal can be developed around this theme.

6. A seed training course of about four months duration was offered to students from Colombo plan countries this year. As part of their program this group of twelve students visited Macdonald College for a day in August.

You as a student can have a far-reaching influence in promoting the purpose of World Seed Year. Watch for the slogan and the emblem. Tell your friends about them. Help the Committee, and Canada, put the program across in 1961!

Initiation Abolished

"In clarification of the policy enunciated in 1954; the Senate of McGill University hereby resolves that any form of student hazing as generally understood by the term, including the use of odd dress, placards, or any other measures which might cause loss of dignity, be strictly prohibited on University grounds or in the University residences and property."

The above resolution was passed by the Senate in its last meeting and marks the end of initiation activities at Macdonald. This year's Freshman class are called to pay particular attention to this resolution in the event that plans are being made to perpetuate the customs of the past. In the senate approved 1954 report of the Committee on Student Activities and Student Discipline, A number of constructive proposals were suggested to alter the initiation customs of the past. These proposals summarized the general feeling of the committee and included the following:

1) The sharing of a strong desire by the Senate and the Students Executive Council, to do all that is possible to make new students feel at home, and to help integrate them into the general student body.

2) The willingness of the Senate and the University staff to cooperate with any appropriate student organizations in achieving this end.

3) It was felt that the Problem of integrating a large number of new students could not very well be solved by a mass attack, and that the ends in view could be better attained if special efforts were made on the part of student organizations to introduce freshmen both to the fellow classmen and to the senior students who shared similar interests. There could be arranged, for example, a photograph competition or a debating contest for freshmen only, sponsored by the Camera Club and Literary and Debating Society respectively. Such measures were felt more appropriate for young people who were expected as university students to possess some sense of maturity and responsibility, and were felt more likely to achieve the desired ends that both staff and students had in mind.

To these proposals, we would like to add one of our own. We suggest that the Student's Executive Council contact various other Universities in similar situations and find what measures they have taken. We understand that the measures adopted by Memorial University in Newfoundland in 1958-59 have proven very effective.

Class Play

The class of '64 presented their play - 'Brothers in Arms', in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday evening. The play, depicting an evening scene in a run-down farm house in Northern Quebec shortly after the War, impressed many observers as being the best presented this season. Although the cast was small from the point of Class participation, the characters portrayed their parts very well. Special mention should go to Marie Sheridan and Gordon Moffet for this, and for their clear expression.

We felt that Brad Gatenby lacked expression in the difficult role as the overly-ambitious business man. Bill Kremmel added spark to the somewhat slow moving play in his minor role as Charlie. Both Lighting and Staging were in keeping with the theme and complimented the rustic country atmosphere.

SPORT??

We feel that it should be brought to the attention of the male population of Macdonald College that they may be missing out on one of the greatest opportunities of their lives. The latest indoor sport seems to consist of sitting in the foyer and whistling, singing, or making a variety of other noises directed at the residents of Stewart Hall.

The scoring rules of the game have not yet been made too clear. However, it appears that the winner of the game is he who embarrasses the greatest number of the unfortunate members of the fairer sex.

Believe me, it is quite a novel experience to walk through the foyer, after meals, between two solid lines of humanity (male in sex) who refer to you as "a hunk of good stock" or otherwise.

And girls, we are even getting quite an attendance at Breakfast now, so if you have that innermost desire and college spirit to help out the boys in their training period, do try and make it to the next livestock judging in the arena in Stewart Hall.

"QUARTER BACK SNEAK!"

COULD BE...

In 1883, George ran away from home. George had lived in a large mansion, called Casa George. With his Great-Uncle George. George ran away because he was sick and tired of lots of money, lots of food, lots of servants, and lots of girls.

George was big and strong and handsome and smart but at home he thought girls liked him because he was filthy rich. George was right.

Now he wanted to see if girls would like him because he was big and strong and handsome and smart... only George thought they would. George thought he was terrific.

George went to Montreal and stood at the corner of St. Catherine and Main Streets. After about 12½ seconds, a luscious girl came up and kissed him. The reason he had to wait so long was that it was four o'clock in the morning and pouring rain. Three seconds later, another girl started kissing him. After two minutes, there were 4296 girls. George started to run. He was afraid of being smothered. George ran and ran. So did the girls. Then George came to the end of the island and he had to stop. By this time there were 8 million girls (roughly).

George then had a very nice time for several weeks. After that he got tired.

George decided something had to be done. He made a careful examination of the 8 million girls (roughly), and decided the one he liked best was called Sadie Hawkins.

George then announced a contest. He told all the girls that the one who could pick the most apples without climbing a tree would be the one he would marry. Sadie Hawkins happened to win this contest. The fact that she was nine feet tall, George attributed to mere coincidence.

The other 7,999,999 girls (roughly) did not agree however and began calling the day "Sadie Hawkins Day". These girls, because they had nothing better to do anymore, all decided to become students at nearby Macdonald College.

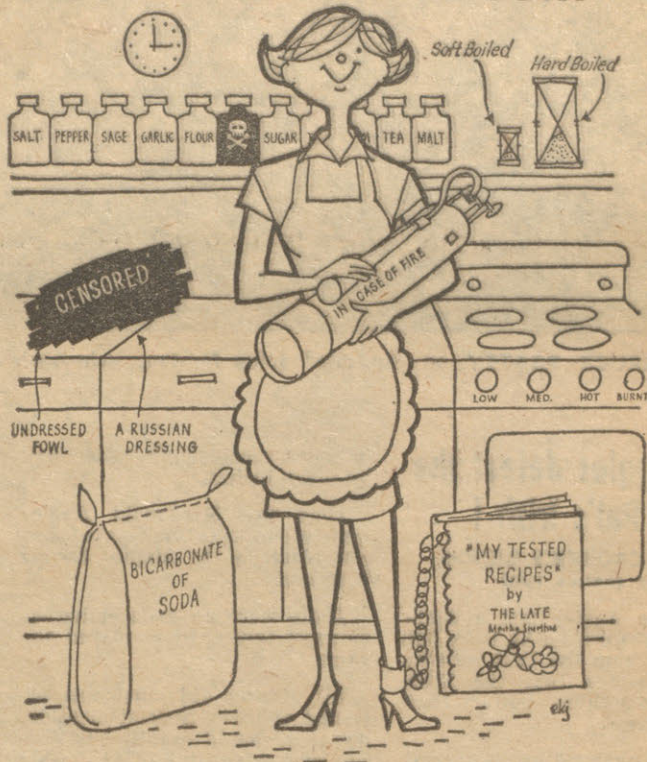

Each year on Sadie Hawkins, they declared open season on the men. In spite of this concentrated effort, and even in spite of the expanding of Sadie Hawkins Day to Sadie Hawkins Week, we regret to report that the odds remain very nearly the same.

Mac Aggies defeat the St. Pat's Irish!

FROM CROBER'S BENCH
by jaanus roht

The Mac Aggies met a much improved team from St. Pat's last Saturday. From the first whistle, it was obvious that the Irish wanted something better than an 18-18 tie.

The ball changed hands several times in the first half, but no one was able to score so the half-time score ended at 0-0.

The sea-saw battle continued in the second half. It wasn't until the final minutes of the third quarter that St. Pat's went ahead 1-0 on a rouged third down kick by Gordie Ventura.

In the final quarter an impregnable Irish wall fought off continued goal-line attacks and the Aggies were forced to give up the ball on downs.

Good running by Okie O'Connor, Bill Mitchell and Bruce Beatty once again brought the Aggies to St. Pat's one yard line. This time there was no stopping the Aggies. Bill Daichun fired an accurate pass to the incomparable Early Pepper to put the Aggies ahead 6-1. Okie O'Connor converted the TD to make it 7-1 for the Aggies.

Macdonald looked certain of a victory with the final minutes ticking by. When the last play of the game was announced, St. Pat's quarterback threw a long pass into the end-zone, but Lady Luck was with the Aggies as the intended receiver missed the ball by mere inches.

Thus the Macdonald Aggies went on to take undisputed second place to the mighty Loyola Warriors.

There were no goals or heroes amongst those who played the game.

All players did what was expected of them. Special mention, however, should go to Bobby Watson, who so capably filled the big shoes of invalid Bruce Walker and injured Don Nickless, who moved from his full-back spot to play inside line-backer.

A dark moment came when the bitter losers began to curse the officials of the game. It seems that they believed a non-existent rule to exist which stated that a TD was scored automatically once the ball touched the recipient's hands. They even went as far as suggesting that the referees made up their own rules — a truly poor showing from a team which had fought so gallantly in the game. But the ball was DROPPED and it is recorded in the annals of history that the Aggies WON — fair and square.

At the same time that Macdonald was defeating St. Pat's Loyola remained unbeaten when they blanked Bishop's 25-0 at Lennoxville. John Roche, Peter Howlett, Don Hogan and QB Mike Ferrie each scored TD's for Loyola. Bill Bacon kicked a single. Several players were ejected and many penalties were called in the excessively rough game.

Soccer Team Bows to Loyola

The hapless soccer team once again suffered defeat, this time to Loyola, 3-1. Del Trott scored Mac's lone goal. The few spectators who did attend saw Mac spark occasionally but on the whole, outplayed and outshot. John Courtney, the standout of the game, turned back many viscous attacks by Loyola.

Why is it that after winning the championship so many times, Macdonald this year, has failed to win even one game? Is it because all the good players graduated leaving a mere shell of a team for Coach Les Clark? I think not! I have heard rumors that several of the players think themselves too good to attend all practices and when they do show up they don't work very hard. Any player who thinks himself too perfect to practise should leave the Macdonald soccer team that has been so very respected these many years and not waste Coach Clark's valuable time.

Moe: 'What do you thing of Macdonald College?'

Joe: 'Oh, Macdonald College turns out a lot of good students.'

Moe: 'Did you graduate from there?'

Joe: 'No, I was turned out!'

SPOTLIGHTING Women's Sports

An energetic and sporting group of Mac's female population were seen kicking around the football field on Saturday, October 29th. It was our girls soccer team, of course, out for a victory against Bishop's feminine kickers. This was the final game for this season and our girls finished off in fine style with a 6-0 win over the "purple and white." As the saying goes, "they were on the ball" throughout the entire game.

To bring our readers up-to-date on the soccer news for this season, Mac never lost a game. The team tied 3 games: 1 against Macdonald High School and 2 against Hudson; the girls also won 3 games: 1 against McGill and 2 against Bishop's. This shows an improvement over last year and I think our girls' soccer team deserves a hearty pat on the back.

SKATING

It's time again to take the old skates off the hook and get yourself over to Glenfinnan Skating Rink. Free skating began sometime this week; so, watch the notice boards for further information.

VOLLEYBALL

Intercollegiate Volleyball time has rolled around again. The practices, this year, are to be held on Tuesday, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., and on Wednesday, from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. How about you? Wouldn't you like to play?

BASKETBALL

With the Judy Brugar Trophy at stake, who can refuse to play Interclass Basketball? Two team practices have been held and the regular schedule begins on November 3rd.

Let's have a real competition this year with a little class spirit.

Basketball at the Intercollegiate level is also under way. Practices are held every Tuesday and Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. Try-outs for both Junior and Senior teams are being held; so, make an effort to come out.

SWIMMING

It seems just about everybody got in the swim of things this week. The annual swim marathon was held from Monday, October 24th, to Friday, October 28th. Each girl was required to swim 5 lengths of the pool the first day, 10, the second day, and 15 lengths, each of the remaining 3 days. However, every length counted even if this maximum could not be reached.

2BDP (2nd year Phys. Ed.) floated off with first place, FBBDP came second (1st year Phys. Ed.), FBSc. (1st year Home Ec.) placed third. Several classes, I might add, ended up in the drink with very few points to their credit.

Better keep in shape, girls, the swim meet is coming up within the next two weeks.

ARCHERY

Team practices will begin next Tuesday, November 8th, from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m., in the Women's Gym. Anyone who has had any experience is welcome....

Beginners classes will start Friday, November 11th, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Let's have a good turnout...

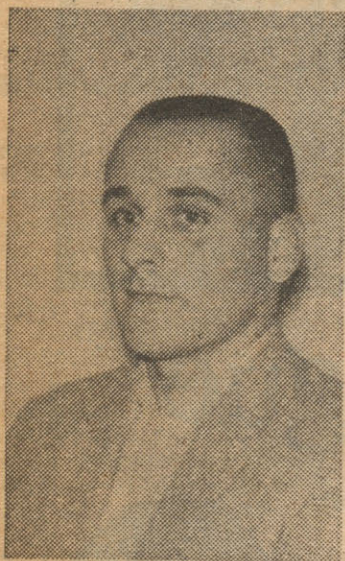

Miss Walker is our coach this year. Plans for competition with other clubs and for new activities within our own club are underway.

Come out and shoot.... and join the fun!

ROSS ARMSTRONG
19 years — 170 lbs — 6'2"

This is Army's first year of playing football, but he has proved himself as a very capable end and pass protecting defensive half-back. Being a Sophomore, Army should enjoy at least two more years of football.

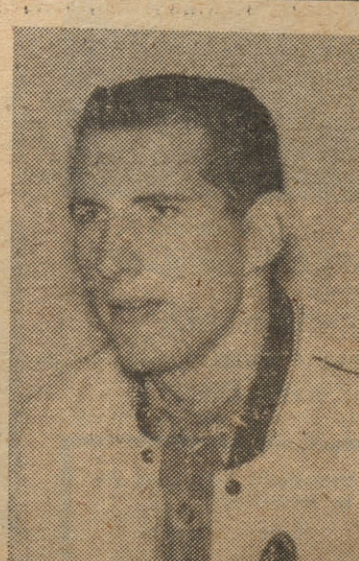

BILL MITCHELL

Although only 19, Mitch is a veteran football player. He starred with Guelph Collegiate for five years before moving on to the Jr. Dutchies for one season and finally to Mac where he is an expert punter and full-back. He can also fill the QB position with equal ease.

Ted played two years with Verdun before coming to Mac. As the left-outside line-backer, he is noted for his numerous pass interceptions and long run-backs.

DALE MUNKITTRICK

"Monk" played for Stanstead for one season. He is presently enjoying his second successful season with the Aggies. Married life has not slowed up the Monk in the least. His deadly speed still makes him dangerous as kick returner and safety back on the defence.

DON HARRIS
19 years — 185 lbs — 5'10"

"The Spider" is a letterman in his third season with the Aggies. Prior to this, he spent two years with Montréal West High's football team. This season, however, has been very unlucky as hand-trouble has kept "The Spider" on the side lines.
